CURES OTHERS.

Mrs. WILLIAM ROBERTS, Bridgeport, N. Y., writes: "If I had not taken your medicine, I would not be here now. The doctors did me no good, I was just a mere skeleton, could not eat, I would have awful pain in my stomach—pain in my side, bowels and chest; soreness in my back and womb; was weak, nervous, and could not sleep. After I took your favorite Prescription, and Golden Medical Discovery, I commenced to improve. In two weeks could walk about the house—could eat—did not have any more pain in my stomach—threw away my morphine. When I first commenced taking the medicine it made me feel worse. I was nervous, could not sleep for three days; but got better my pains and bad feelings left me, and I could sleep good; my nerves got better. Before I took your medicine I kept bed four months—got worse all the while, but now quite fleshy and can work all day."

EVERYBODY WAS HORRIFIED.

An incident not down in the programme upset the entertainment given by the Long Island Railroad Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in the waiting room of the Thirty-fourth street ferry in Long Island City, Wednesday night. A very pretty blonde, dressed entirely in bright red, who some how got on the platform, sang several "spicy" songs that threw the gathering into a panic.

The young women present stopped their ears with their fingers and were horror-stricken. The young men looked aghast, while the less scrupulous members of the gathering in the back seats applauded vigorously, and the blonde warbled away as unconcerned as if she was appearing before a Coney Island picnic.

Every effort had been made by the railroad company to encourage the Railroad Young Men's Christian Association. Mrs. Austin Corbin took an active interest in the affairs of the association, and aided in fitting out the rooms over the express sheds, which were destroyed by the big fire on the night of January 11 last, that wiped out the freight and express warehouses. This left the association temporarily without a home.

The entertainment Wednesday night was one of a series given with a view to aid in raising funds with which to equip a new home building. An elaborate programme was prepared.

In order to save the expense of engaging a hall, the railroad company gave the association the use of the big Thirty-fourth street ferry waiting room, while the James slip waiting room was utilized temporarily for ferry passengers. The Railroad Young Men's Christian Association has many friends in Long Island City, and the place was well filled with spectators when the entertainment began.

Everything went along swimmingly until toward the close, when three late comers were ushered in. They were two young women, with an elderly, gray whiskered man. J. Henry McKinley was in the height of a tenor solo, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," when the trio took seats.

No one knows how it happened, but following the solo some one invited the young woman in red from the back of the room to favor the audience with a few selections. The request was apparently made innocently enough, and the young woman in red responded with alacrity. She tripped lightly toward the front of the spectators, followed by her companion, who took a seat at the piano. Then the symphony in red began. Her first selection was:—
I'm from gay Paris.
I dance the gay can can, &c.
As she tripped back and forth in front of the gathering it was seen that even her slippers and stockings were red. A dead silence followed the first verse. No one attempted to interfere, and the young woman at the piano banged away and the song went on. At its conclusion some young men in the rear applauded heartily. Instantly the young woman was on her feet again. This time she warbled:—
I couldn't blame the girl, could you?
This latter song apparently didn't take quite as well as the first. The silence following its rendition was painful.

Taking advantage of the pause, the two women, with their escort, quietly bundled themselves out of the building, and were soon lost in the direction of Tony Miller's Hotel.

Then a feeling of indignation arose among the promoters of the entertainment and their friends. They looked upon the intrusion of the young woman as a sort of "put up job" on the part of somebody, and the leaders of the association expressed a quiet determination to ferret out the culprits. The entertainment was concluded, but everybody went away talking about the naughty girl in red, and wondering who she was.

There were several angry men about the Long Island Railroad depot, and should they succeed in discovering the culprits it will probably go ill with them.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds.—[Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough; that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by L. Stabler & Co.

Rudy's Pile Suppository is guaranteed to cure PILES and CONSTIPATION, or money refunded. 50 cents per box. Send stamp for circular and Free Sample to MARTIN RUDY, Lancaster, Pa. For sale by all first-class druggists.
